ABOUT THE SEMINAR

Multidisciplinary research is an analysis or investigation of a problem to test a hypothesis that integrates a range of academic disciplines, fields, or approaches. It entails the synthesis of several domains and research procedures in the quest for knowledge using methodical, objective approaches that contribute something novel to the corpus of previously known information.

The goal of this international seminar is to debate 'ISSUES AND CHALLENGES IN MULTIDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH AND PRACTICE' by bringing together forward-thinking academics and researchers in a common venue. The seminar's primary goals are to expand scientific understanding and support ongoing research and development.

Multidisciplinary research enhances the viewpoint of experts in their respective fields. Multidisciplinary research is needed to handle most, if not all, of the main research concerns of the next ten years.
